

DEMO DATA - not a real study.

Developers using an AI assistant finished routine tasks faster.

Median completion time fell in the assisted group.

Gains were smaller for complex tasks in unfamiliar code.
Several participants reported reviewing suggestions carefully.

Satisfaction scores were higher in the assisted group.
The study ran for four weeks.